In order to become a Cooperating Forester through the Center for Forest and Wood Certification please be aware that you will need to fulfill the following:

- Submit this application and pay the one time application fee that covers all your current and future costs in including training.
- Graduated with a degree at the baccalaureate level from an SAF accredited school or fulfilled the minimum education requirements for the SAF Certified Forester program
- Attend a one-time mandatory training on certification, management plan writing, and Center policies and procedures
- Attend yearly training updates (conference call or webinar)
- Assist Center personnel in meeting with potential Group Members (only your clients) and being present during assessments

By signing this application for membership in the Center for Forest and Wood Certification Forest Management Section Group Certification, you acknowledge and understand that to write certified management plans you must follow all requirements as detailed in the Center for Forest and Wood Certification Operations Manual.

Membership is voluntary, and you are free to end your membership at anytime for any reason, but any fees may not be reimbursed.
